

SAWC NEWS

Southern Appalachian Work Center Newsletter

In this issue:

- SAWC Debut
- Meet the Team
- SAWC Mission Statement
- Outreach Debut

Southern Appalachian Work Center makes it's Operational Debut

On 21 August, 2018, the newly formed Southern Appalachian Work Center made it's operational debut. In partnership with the Tennessee Eastman Hiking and Canoeing Club, and Wright

State University, the SAWC held it's first trail maintenance event in southern region of the Appalachian Trail. A full day of trail maintenance, in adverse weather conditions resulted in 281 feet of new trail in the Roan Highlands section of the AT; afterwards, a celebration dinner and awards capped a successful SAWC debut.

Meet the SAWC Team

The Southern Appalachian Work Center (SAWC) is currently governed by a local volunteer advisory committee consisting of members of ALDHA, ATC, and local trail maintainers from the southern region of the Appalachian Trail.

